When South Africa's top artists finish a painting, they don't usually allow people to walk all over it.

But the people at Hyde Park shopping centre, Sandton, will be able to do just that today. Seventeen artists spent Saturday there painting their own private 3 by 1½-metre bits of pavement.

And the man who came up with the winning effort was Leonard Matsoso, he's ringed in the picture. In the foreground is Cecil Skotnes. He came second.

A waste of time? Not at all — Matsoso gets a free flight to Paris, compliments of the airline that sponsored the contest with the
